TERRITORY COULD NOT ENFORCE LAW—FEAR

Declares Federal Control Would Be Prompt And Effective

DECLARES HE IS NOT RADICAL PROHIBITIONIST

Chief Executive Says That Territorial Prohibition Would Not Be Enforced According to Spirit of Law.

Governor Fear does not believe that the people of Hawaii are able to enforce a prohibition law effectively, even if they were to enact one through the Legislature.

Governor Fear thinks Federal control would be salutary and effective but doubts its effects on the self-governing instincts of the people.

Governor Fear believes in abolishing the saloons but says he is not a radical prohibitionist.

Governor Fear insists that there is no connection between Federal prohibition and government by commission.

Governor Fear declared this morning that he favored prohibition in Hawaii but was a trifle doubtful as to the best method of obtaining it.

"If we have Federal prohibition," declared the Governor, "it will be prompt and effective in its application. If we obtain it through act of the Legislature it will be a long time before we get it and it will be ineffective in its application."

"I am not a radical in prohibition matters," asserted the Governor and do not go as far as some who believe in abolishing the liquor business utterly. I do not believe in wiping out the saloon but am inclined to think that this would effectively end the train of evils that are a necessary accompaniment to the saloon.

Governor Fear was asked if he did not consider the statement that Territorial prohibition would be ineffective even if adopted was a reflection upon the power of the people to govern themselves and enforce the laws.

"Yes and no," was the reply of the Territory's chief executive.

There is absolutely no connection between the enactment of a prohibitory statute by the Congress of the United States and the institution of a government by commission, according to the views expressed this morning by Governor Fear.

"A connection between the two is so flimsy and intangible," said the Governor, "that it cannot be taken into serious consideration. It might

ANYTHING TO BEAT HOME RULE

Merchants Opposed To Federal Control

Association Passes Strong Resolution Introduced By George Smith

By a decisive vote the Merchants' Association went on record yesterday afternoon as being emphatically opposed to the idea of the enactment of a Federal prohibitory law for the Territory of Hawaii.

By the adoption of a resolution offered by George W. Smith, drawn in plain and emphatic terms, the members of the Association showed their finality that they oppose any infringement upon Territorial rights by the enactment of a Federal statute, the entering wedge for further Federal control in the local government of the Territory.

Lorrin F. Thurston appeared as the leading champion for prohibition by Federal statute. His argument in its behalf consisted mainly in a resume of the historical development of the liquor business in Hawaii and an appeal for the enactment of a prohibitory law to punish the liquor dealers of the community because of their activity in the last campaign, which resulted in the defeat of John Hughes.

MRS. COULTER WILL REPRESENT HAWAII

Local Lady Champion Will Play Tennis On Coast

Upon the arrival of the China this morning, President Bockus of the Hawaiian Lawn Tennis Association announced that all arrangements in connection with Mrs. Coulter's trip to the Coast, as the representative of these islands on the mainland courts, have been completed, and that Dr. Sumner B. Hardy is looking after the matter in detail. The matches in which Mrs. Coulter will compete will be played in July, and the Honolulu lady champion will probably leave Hawaii in May or June next.

Mrs. Coulter will have ample time to practise on the mainland tennis courts, and should be acclimated by the time the big tournament takes place. Miss Hotchkiss will probably be one of the first players Mrs. Coulter will encounter, and if the Hawaiian champion is successful, a match against Miss May Sutton will speedily follow.

Dr. Cook Is Found In Bermuda

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Dr. Cook, the discredited explorer, has finally been discovered, after a search by newspaper correspondents that has covered nearly every hamlet of the world. He has been located in a secluded part of the island of Bermuda, where he appears to have been spending the winter very comfortably.

Insurgents Are Near Capital

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 8.—The insurgent forces are nearing the capital, after having evacuated Boaco. The latter town was immediately reoccupied by the Government forces.

THURSTON TOLD TO SIT DOWN

Only one "incident" jarred yesterday's meeting of the Merchants' Association which resulted in the passage of the anti-prohibition resolution. That was when L. A. Thurston shouted out that he would not sit down for any man alive.

This was in answer to William Walters. It appears that there were six speakers on the floor at one and the same time. All were out of order and all were subsequently ruled out of order. These included Messrs. Thurston, Walters, Smith and Macfarlane.

Mr. Macfarlane had just read some interesting statistics relative to the number of arrests and convictions for drunkenness for the year 1902 and 1909, which showed a marked decrease in the number of arrests for

Freight Boat For Interisland Service

Manager Kennedy Purchases Additional Tonnage To The Sugar Fleet

A new freight steamer will soon be added to the fleet of Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company vessels.

As a result of General Manager Kennedy's visit to the Coast, the steamer Cascade, which for the past five years has been operated by C. R. McCormick & Co. along the Pacific Coast, passed into the hands of the Inter-Island people, and the vessel is expected to sail from San Francisco for Honolulu before the last of the week.

The price paid for the steamer is not divulged, but it is understood that a substantial sum passed in the transfer of the vessel to the local steamship company.

The Cascade is 515 gross and 339 net tons. In size she will rank between the steamers Niihau and the Helene. The vessel has a capacity of about 9000 sacks of sugar.

The vessel is 163 feet in length, has a beam of 36 feet and a depth of 12 feet 5 inches.

She was built during the early part of the century.

Democratic Subsidy Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 8.—Important developments were manifested in the ship subsidy legislation today, when the announcement was made that the Democrats have agreed to support a substitute for the administration measure introduced by Congressman Humphreys of Washington.

It is anticipated that with the principle of ship subsidy admitted by the opposition party, a compromise measure may be put through Congress that will meet the situation and give a new impetus to the upbuilding of the American merchant marine.

Mexican Riots

PETATA, Mex., Feb. 8.—A number of people were killed here today in riots growing out of an election held in this district.

INVASION OF RIGHTS

Following is the text of the resolution presented at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that it is the sense of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, that the enactment by the Congress of the United States at the present time of a law prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquor in this Territory, would constitute an unjustified invasion of the right heretofore conferred upon the people of this Territory to determine for themselves all local questions, and to administer their internal affairs in a manner consonant with the fundamental principles of American government.

RESOLVED ALSO, that a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Delegate to Congress at Washington.

The resolution carried by a vote of 52 to 18.

HIS DESTINATION WAS OTHERWISE ORDERED

Clune, Thro Passenger On China, Died; Buried At Sea

Death, silent and sudden, intervened in the case of John Clune, an American of moderate means who left San Francisco by the Pacific Mail steamship China, with the intention of visiting Honolulu, and instead of Clune stepping down the gangway this morning, his dead body had been consigned to the deep, the second day after leaving the California port.

Clune was among a number of second-class passengers who left by the China for the Far East. The Pacific Mail liner sailed from San Francisco at noon on February 1. At 6 o'clock that evening Clune was a dead man.

Clune was to all appearances a well and hearty man when he stepped aboard the China. He retired to his cabin, which he occupied with several other passengers, and shortly before 6 o'clock he laid down in his bunk.

A few moments later his companions heard a faint gasp and, looking in the direction of Clune, were horrified to discover that the man had partly rolled out of the berth and was dead.

Surgeon William Allen of the China was immediately summoned, but he pronounced life as extinct.

Clune was buried at sea the following day. Among his effects was found negotiable paper and drafts to the amount of fifty pounds on various banks of Australia. He was to all appearances a laboring man. Practically little or nothing is known of the man save that he intended to remain over at Honolulu for some weeks and then take passage to the Colonies.

The China met with fair weather during the latter part of the voyage down from the Coast. The first few days were rather disagreeable for passengers. The vessel brings thirty-seven cabin and two Atlantic steerage passengers for Honolulu.

In transit and bound for Oriental ports are sixty-three cabin and seventy-five Atlantic passengers. The vessel is leaving about thirty tons of freight for Honolulu. The China is laden with nearly three thousand tons of freight for Far Eastern ports. Of this, 2400 tons consist of cotton for Japan. In the specie tanks are over four hundred thousand dollars in coin and bullion.

The China is taking on five hundred tons of coal at Honolulu and is scheduled to sail for Yokohama at 5 o'clock this evening.

A Honolulu mail amounting to 450 sacks arrived by the vessel. A large portion of this was intended for the Pacific fleet.

The China brought a goodly delegation of tourist folk. Several well-known local residents returned from business and pleasure trips to the mainland.

James S. McCandless was a returning passenger by the China, he having spent several weeks on the Coast and in the States in the inter-
